We continue our progress to gradually leave the forest area. We pass streams and areas of scree: watch out for slippery areas! Before arriving at the base camp of Machapuchhare, the trees are becoming increasingly scarce and a look back makes us aware of the crampedness of the valley. A few steps later, the view widens and we see one after another all the high peaks: Machapuchhare (6997 m), Gangapurna (7454 m), Annapurna I (8091 m), Hiun Chuli (6441 m) . The view of the base camp of Annapurna is striking. Overnight in lodge.

What a beautiful descent that makes us aware of the accumulated unevenness! Overnight in lodge.

We continue our descent along the river, sometimes near the banks, sometimes on the side of a mountain. We follow the same path as on the way.
